PSCHE & RSHE Pupil Voice

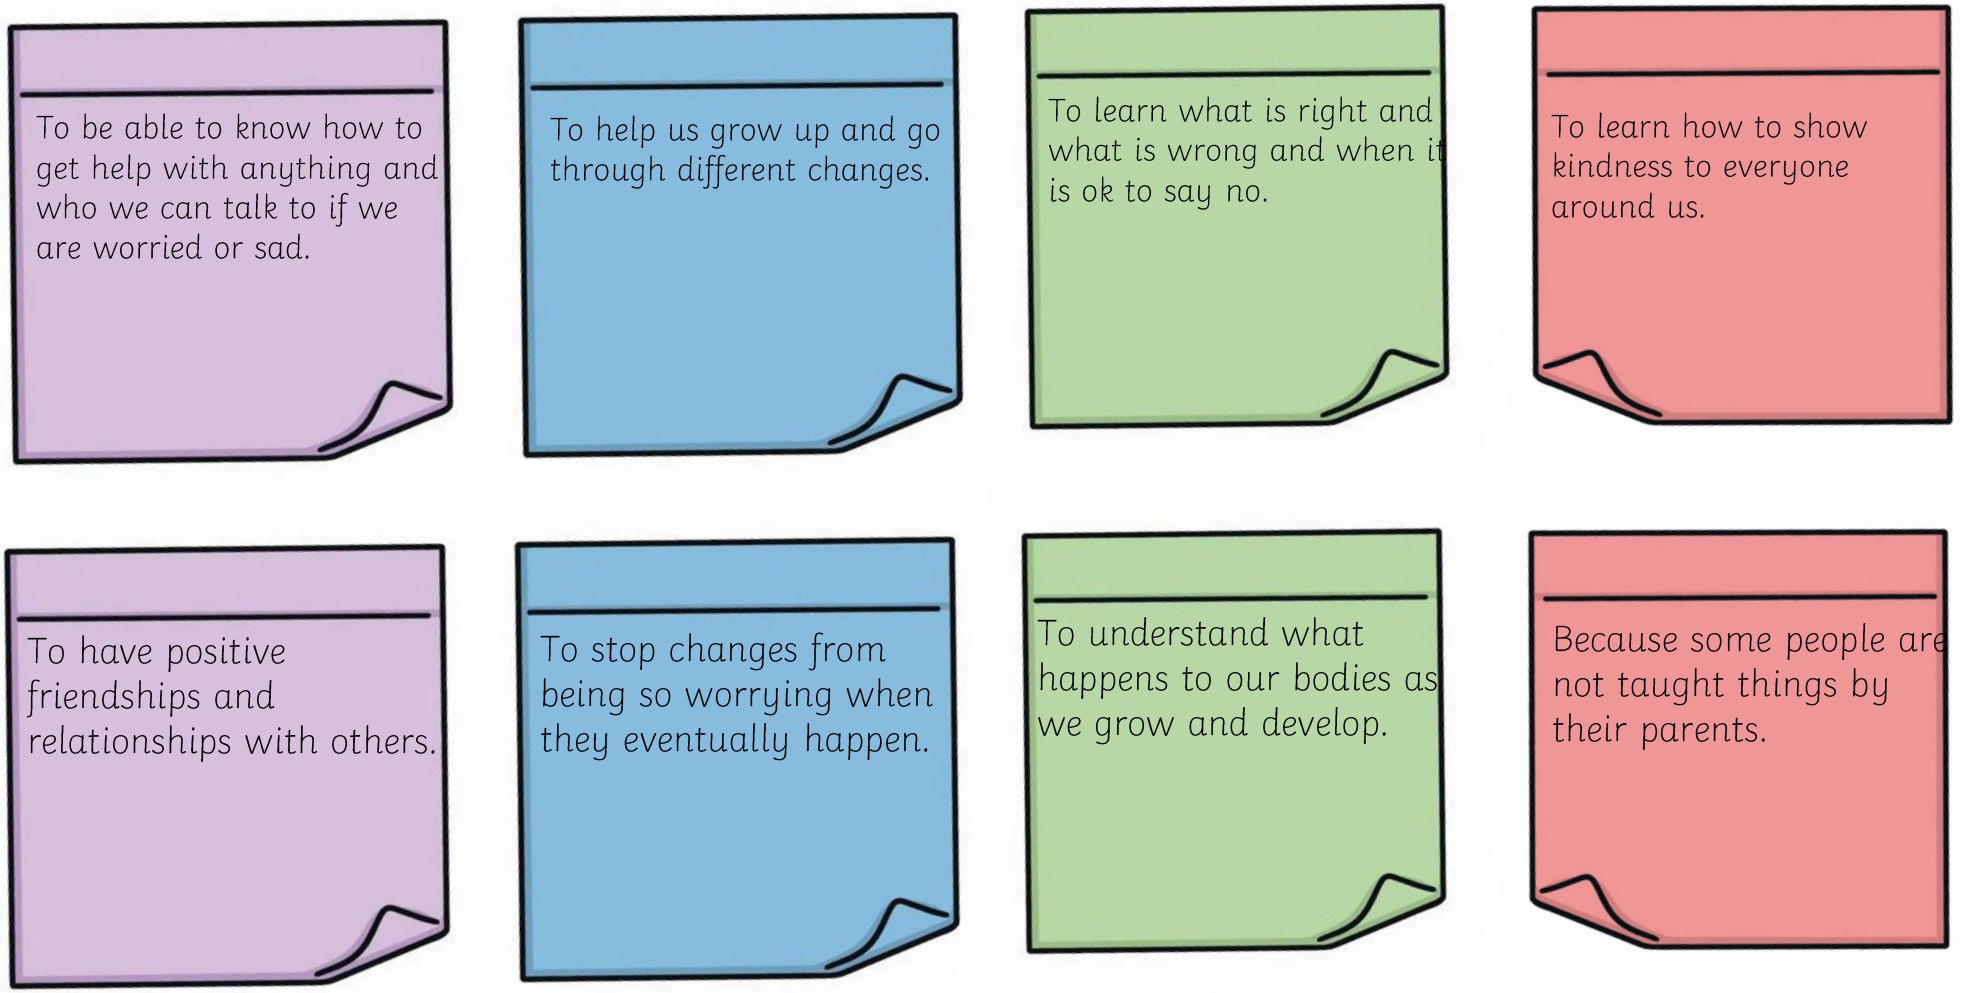

Pupil Voice was gathered as part of the review and redesign of the PSCHE and RSHE curriculum, in preperation for the implementation of the revised statutory guidance from September 2026. Pupils across the school were given opportunities to share their views on the current curriculum, identify topics they felt were most relevant to their lives and suggest areas where they would like further learning and support.

What is Relationships, Sex and Health Education?

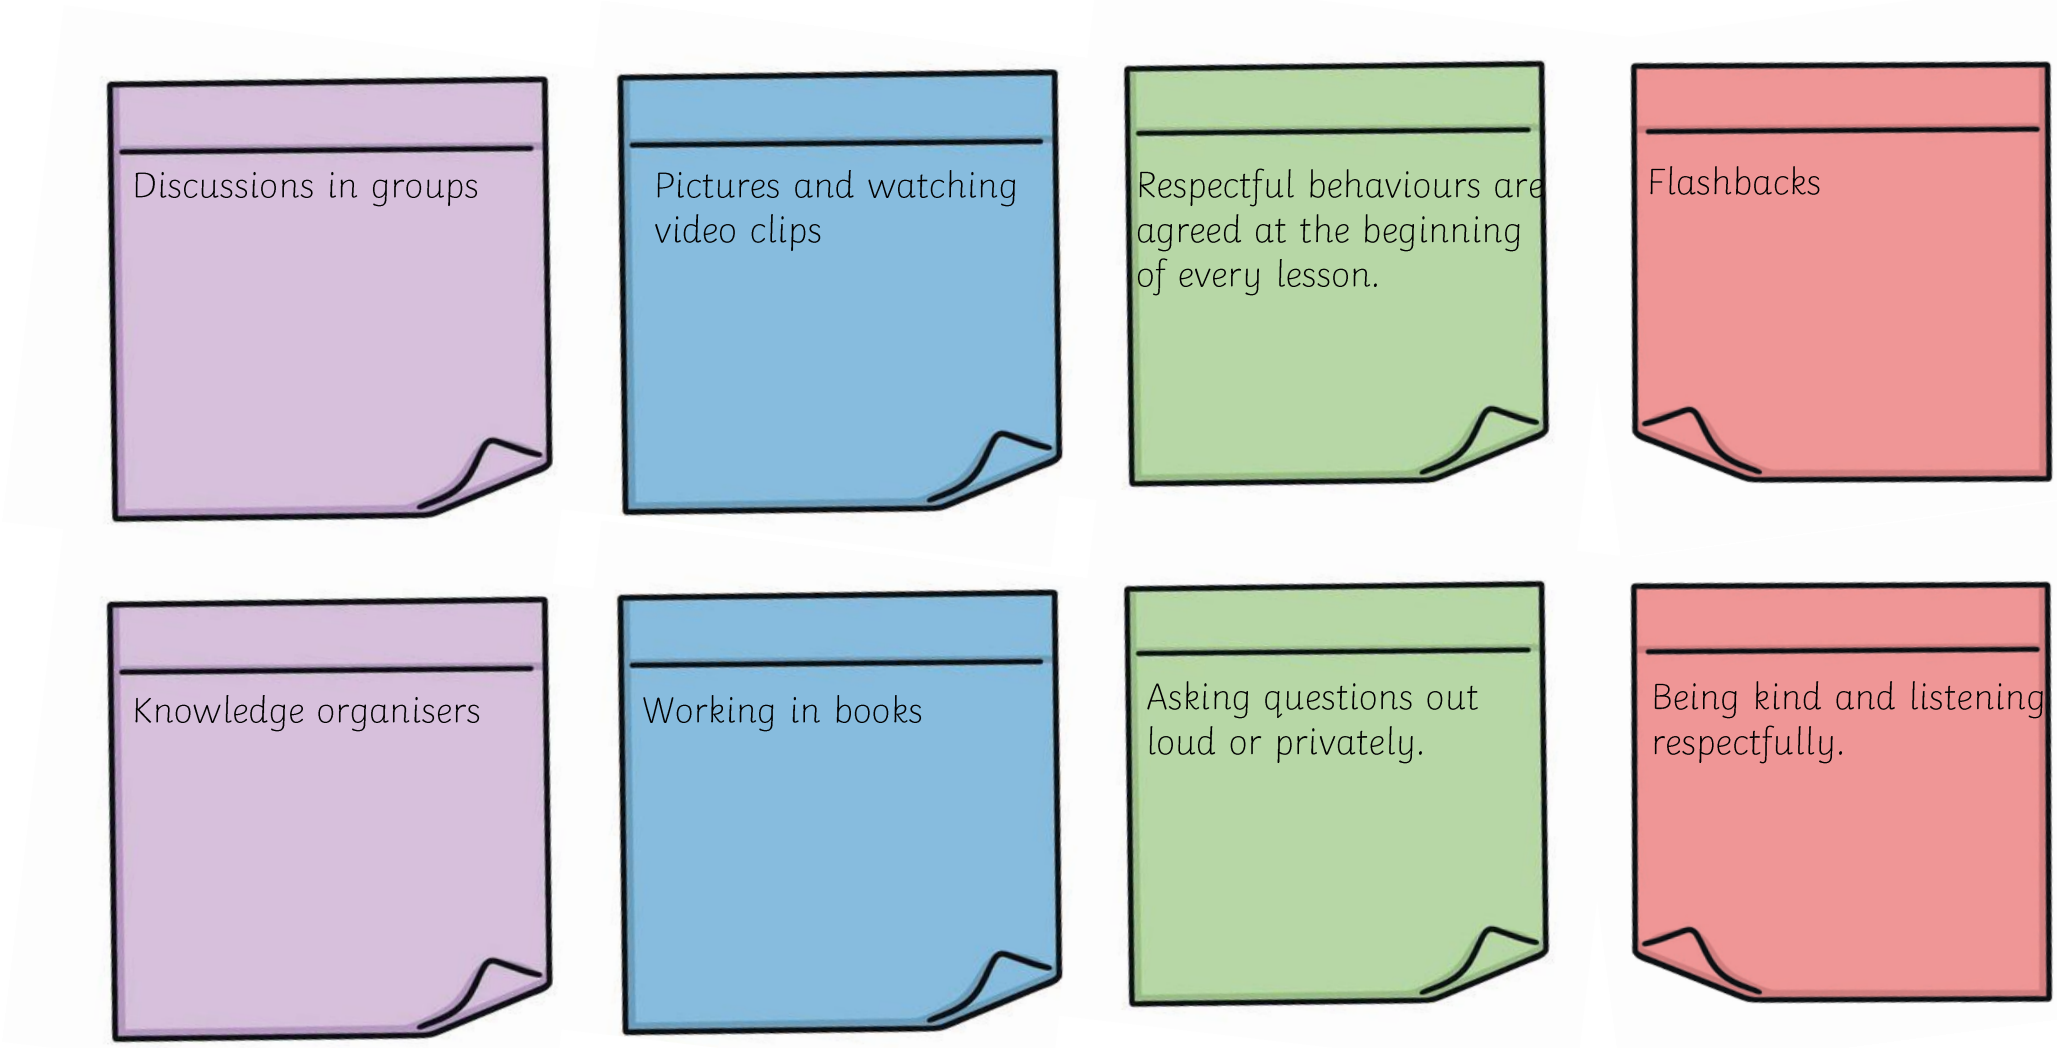

The children were asked about any topics or threads that have been taught and why they are important.

Why is RSHE important to learn?

What does RSHE look like at Dovedale?

What do we already do well at Dovedale?

Following the school rules – showing respect and kindness.

Being a good friend and looking out for each other.

Using the correct names for body parts.

Dovedale covers bullying often and children know how to be anti-bullying.

Learning about how to deal with changes and how changes could feel.

Learning how to be safe.

Ideas for improvements:

More discussions and less book work.

Sometimes learning in gender specific groups.

Make school rules that are followed from Year 1.

Teachers sometimes teaching certain topics like puberty and sex education by the same gender.

What are the ground rules?

Listen to each other's ideas and always be kind.

Get all of the silliness out before the lesson starts. Don't make jokes about what each other have to go through. Don't purposefully embarrass.

Remember this is real life – be kind, be respectful.

Ask questions if you are unsure. This could be Infront of the class or in a question box.

Use the correct vocabulary.

Never tell stories using our friends as examples.

We do not laugh at other people's questions or ideas.

Ideas for improvements:

Think before you speak.

Do not be worried about asking a question or sharing an idea.
